PATIENTS HIDE USE OF TRADITIONAL MEDICINE

● Fear of judgment stops people disclosing remedies

By NANDI NTINI

New research at Gauteng public hospitals has found that fear, stigma and poor communication prevent many South Africans from telling doctors about their use of traditional medicine, potentially putting their health at risk.

Dr Lindiwe Gumede of the University of Johannesburg found that patients often do not disclose their use of traditional remedies before seeking medical treatment, making it harder for health-care professionals to provide appropriate care.

Gumede's study, which was conducted among physicians working in public hospitals, revealed an absence of clear procedures that encourage patients to disclose their use of traditional medicines. This is despite the widespread use of traditional remedies in the country.

One physician recalled a case involving a severely ill infant whose condition deteriorated after receiving traditional medicine, something like imbiza.

"The child was unconscious. The child had herbal intoxication, like they'd given an overdose of some herbal drug. That child was going to the ICU [intensive care unit]. The mother kept on denying it [the use of traditional medicine]. I was upset," the doctor told researchers.

The child was admitted to ICU and remained there for a month before recovering. Only after the child was discharged did the mother return to the hospital to admit that she had given the child traditional medicine.

"Doctor, you were right, and I want to confess, but at that time I could not disclose because I could see you were angry," she reportedly told the physician.

Gumede's research also suggests that fear of judgment and negative reactions from health-care professionals often discourage patients from speaking openly about traditional remedies. Traditional healer Abraham Mnguni said the problem is rooted in longstanding stereotypes surrounding traditional healing practices.

"...the issue of traditional medicine, as well as the disclosure of patients having to disclose it, is systemic," said Mnguni.

"We are a sector that is known to be demonic. If you are using services of traditional healers, you are often seen as someone who practises witchcraft. Because people do not want to be associated with these labels, they avoid telling doctors that they have used traditional medicine."

He said some patients fear being ridiculed or judged by health-care workers who hold personal religious beliefs against traditional healing practices.

"As soon as some patients disclose that they are taking imbiza or other traditional medicines, they fear being told that they are lost in life, that they are involved in demonic practices or that they should abandon traditional healing altogether."

As a result, many choose to remain silent even when the information could be important for their treatment, he said.

The study also found that medical consultation forms rarely include specific questions about traditional medicines. Instead, health-care workers generally ask patients whether they are taking medication, often referring only to prescription or over-the-counter medicines.

According to Gumede, this gap in communication can have serious consequences, particularly when patients use traditional remedies alongside prescribed medicines. "There can be interactions between traditional medicines and allopathic medicines, which is why healthcare professionals need to know what patients are taking," she said.

However, Mnguni said the problem of non-disclosure does not exist only in hospitals. He said traditional healers also depend on patients being honest about their medical history, chronic illnesses and prescribed treatments so appropriate decisions can be made about traditional remedies.

"We advise our patients that when they go to a hospital, they must tell doctors what traditional medicine they have been taking so that there is no clash between the medicine that we have given them and the medicine they receive at the hospital."

Mnguni said he also encourages patients to disclose information to traditional healers.

"I would really appreciate patients disclosing to me that apart from the things that I've seen during consultation, are there any other things that they are not telling me," he said. "For instance, I may not pick up cancer, I may not pick up HIV, but I would appreciate them telling me that they are going for chemotherapy, they are taking ARVs, or they are taking medication for a chronic disease."

According to Mnguni, this information is vital. "This therefore helps me to know that I don't give you strong medication."

He said a lack of disclosure can create serious complications for patients. Both Gumede and Mnguni agree that stronger communication, mutual respect and collaboration are needed to improve patient outcomes.

SCOPE OF WORK: SUPPLY, DELIVERY AND INSTALLATION OF NEW WEIGHBRIDGE AT MAKHADO LANDFILL SITE.

1. INTRODUCTION

Tenders are invited from prospective and suitable service providers for the construction, supply, delivery and installation of a Weighbridge at the Makhado Landfill Site.

The landfill site is located on portion 1 of farm Rietvlei 276-LS in Louis Trichardt, approximately 4.5 km East of Louis Trichardt. The landfill weighbridge must allow the municipality to provide accurate information on waste entering and leaving the Makhado landfill site on a daily basis, to ensure suitable management of the landfill site.

The existing weighbridge at Makhado Landfill site always has electrical fault and damaged loading cells. After an investigation, it was discovered that the weighbridge was installed at the lowest point where the surface running water passes through and this caused damage to electrical components.

To resolve this problem, the weighbridge need to be completely removed and new weighbridge which is bigger and raised be installed to avoid damage at the loading cell. A suitable and qualified service provider is required to remove the existing damaged weighbridge, install 18m long weighbridge with all associated accessories at a raised point, supply the weighbridge monitor and computer software.

The installation of the weighbridge is essential for efficient landfill operations, as it will facilitate accurate data collection and reporting, aiding in compliance with environmental and waste management regulations.

2. DESCRIPTION OF WORKS

Supervisors and engineers shall also have higher levels of access to additional functions that are not available to a console operator.

For system time synchronization, NTP (Network time protocol via Ethernet), to Makhado servers is possible but will completely be in Contractor's scope to connect to nearest available connecting point. Contractor is at liberty to also provide own GPS time input and antenna. Local indication and alarm indications shall also be provided by Contractor. Local control stations for the Weighbridge at the local point of operations will be provided by the contractor which will be integrated to the computer and workstation in the control room. As a minimum, the weighbridge control and accounting system should be able to:

- Identify or distinguish the different types of payloads or material being weighed.

5. WEIGHBRIDGE FUNCTIONAL REQUIREMENTS

This section of the document details the requirements in terms of technical design and functional requirements for the weighbridge scale and the associated truck processing infrastructure.

5.1 Weighbridge Scale Platform Configuration

- The platform scale shall be of the pitless, above grade, raised weighbridge/ platform configuration. Raised weighbridge scale shall employ a steel deck platform above grade, where the scale is located above several piers, or a slab on grade foundation with ramps leading up to and down from the scale.
- The ramp and platform interface shall include anti-creep devices. Raised weighbridge scale shall provide access to the scale mechanism, load cells, junction boxes, cables and connectors via access plates mounted along the lengthwise edges of the scale platform.

- The raised platform configuration will include heavy duty vehicle guide rails along the sides of the approach and departure ramps. These structures shall ensure that approaching and departing trucks are well aligned with the scale platform, thus preventing damage to the scale infrastructure and the vehicle itself. The raised platform configuration shall also include heavy duty vehicle guide rails of steel beam construction on both long edges of the scale platform, to ensure that the vehicle is located safely on the scale platform.
- Positioned prior to the approach ramp of the weigh-out weighbridge, but after the vertically oriented safety trip system described in section 1.1, an impact protection structure shall be positioned in such a manner that if an approaching side tipper truck has its load box(s) in the unloading position the protective structure will then absorb the impact and deflect the load box immediately alerting the truck driver.
- Working parts of all equipment shall be readily accessible for inspection, lubrication, and repair. Moving parts of any equipment shall also be guarded as required to protect personnel during operation.
- The perimeter gap between the platform and the adjacent foundation walls or access ramp edges shall be provided with a wear resistant sealing system.
- The weighbridge system shall be designed for trucks to enter and exit using a two bidirectional weighbridge, under the direction of the automatically controlled green/red traffic signal indication.

5.2 Weighbridge Scale Capacity

The weighbridge scale shall be designed to cater for group axle load distribution. The scale shall have a minimum rated capacity of 60 metric tons (60,000 kg), and the scale platform's footprint shall measure 18m x 3m (minimum). The scale shall cater for normally loaded vehicles and is not required to cater for vehicles carrying abnormal loads.

5.3 Weighbridge Scale Platform Strength Requirements

A platform scale shall be of such strength and designed and constructed so that: A load equal to one half of the capacity of the scale, placed as near as possible to any edge of the load receptor, shall not cause the load receptor or any elements of the load transmitting device to yield unduly or cause the load receptor to disengage from any element of the load transmitting device: and where any load— the mass of which the scale is required to measure — weighing more than half the capacity of the scale, can be concentrated on an area less than half that of the load receptor (under normal conditions of use), the platform scale shall support such mass, so concentrated, without undue yielding of the load receptor, or of any element of the load transmitting device.

5.4 Weighbridge Scale Testing and Calibration

The tests specified below shall be performed upon completion of the scale installation. This testing and the associated costs shall form part of the scope of work to be performed. Any additional recommended tests may be proposed for consideration. The initial set of tests forms part of installation cost. In addition, the supplier will be responsible for all costs associated with correcting deficiencies and retesting in the event of a test failure.

Tests to be performed as part of the scale calibration shall include, but not be limited to:

- Zero Load Error test.
- End-Middle-End test.
- Eccentric Loading test.
- Accuracy Test.

6. MATERIAL REQUIREMENTS

The Contractor shall be responsible for the supply of all materials. Where a material is specified in this document, the material supplied shall be exactly in accordance with the specification. If the Contractor intends to use similar or equivalent materials the Contractor shall apply in writing to Makhado Local Municipality for approval thereof.

6.1 Materials

Aggregate, concrete, and river sand must only be sourced from facilities that holds valid environmental approval (e.g., WUL/GA, EA, Mining permit/rights, etc).

7. SHE REQUIREMENTS

- The Contractor shall comply with Makhado landfill site Operational Management Plan and stipulations of the OHS Act.
- The Contractor Employees shall comply with Makhado landfill site Waste Management License.
- The Contractor Employees shall comply with Environmental legislations.

CERTIFICATE OF INDEPENDENT BID DETERMINATION

- 1 This Municipal Bidding Document (MBD) must form part of all bids¹ invited.
- 2 Section 4 (1) (b) (iii) of the Competition Act No. 89 of 1998, as amended, prohibits an agreement between, or concerted practice by, firms, or a decision by an association of firms, if it is between parties in a horizontal relationship and if it involves collusive bidding (or bid rigging).² Collusive bidding is a per se prohibition meaning that it cannot be justified under any grounds.
- 3 Municipal Supply Regulation 38 (1) prescribes that a supply chain management policy must provide measures for the combating of abuse of the supply chain management system, and must enable the accounting officer, among others, to:
 - a. take all reasonable steps to prevent such abuse;
 - b. reject the bid of any bidder if that bidder or any of its directors has abused the supply chain management system of the municipality or municipal entity or has committed any improper conduct in relation to such system; and
 - c. cancel a contract awarded to a person if the person committed any corrupt or fraudulent act during the bidding process or the execution of the contract.
- 4 This MBD serves as a certificate of declaration that would be used by institutions to ensure that, when bids are considered, reasonable steps are taken to prevent any form of bid-rigging.
- 5 In order to give effect to the above, the attached Certificate of Bid Determination (MBD 9) must be completed and submitted with the bid:

² Bid rigging (or collusive bidding) occurs when businesses, that would otherwise be expected to compete, secretly conspire to raise prices or lower the quality of goods and / or services for purchasers who wish to acquire goods and / or services through a bidding process. Bid rigging is, therefore, an agreement between competitors not to compete.
